

JOIN US SEPTEMBER 23, 2023

Join Great Lakes Science Center as we celebrate the 50th Anniversary of our Skylab 3 Apollo Command Module that returned to Earth on September 25, 1973. The mission began July 28, 1973, with the launch of NASA astronauts Alan Bean, Owen Garriott, and Jack Lousma in the Apollo command and service module. During the mission, the Skylab 3 crew performed scientific experiments in medical activities, solar observations, Earth resources, and many others. The module has called Great Lakes Science Center home since June 2010.

Astronaut Jack Lousma, who piloted our Apollo Command Module in the Skylab 3 Mission, will join us for this tribute. Col. Lousma has a storied career as an astronaut, retired United States Marine Corps officer, and the CAPCOM recipient of the "Houston, we've had a problem" message from Apollo 13.
